RONJA Networking Group during their Wednesday morning meeting at Beaverbrooks House

Ronja The Business Network

“ Since we moved our Networking Group to Blackpool Carers Centre in June 2018 it has become very clear that it was the right decision. The positivity that comes from the centre and all the staff that work there gives all of our businesses a great boost every week. The members have loved getting involved with fundraising events to help to have a positive effect on our community. Not only is it rewarding to know we are contributing to the support of this great charity, but it gives our members exposure too, helping them to build integrity as a business. We feel that Ronja The Business Network and Blackpool Carers Centre has been a match made in heaven as we are both helping and supporting our local area. ”

Spire Fylde Coast Hospital

“ Working with Blackpool Carers Centre continues to be a pleasure as well as giving focus to the hospital's fundraising events. Our team are pleased to support a local charity that provides such valuable services and which also provides us with many community networking opportunities in terms of events and social media reach. ”

Benefits of becoming a Caring Corporate

Identify carers in your workforce, help them to access appropriate support at the right time, improve staff retention, recruitment and wellbeing.

Why should you become a Caring Corporate?

In Blackpool, thousands of people juggle a significant caring role alongside their working life.

The chances are that most working carers just 'get on with it'. The challenge comes when a caring role becomes excessive or overwhelming. This is the time when a valuable member of your team may take sick leave or even leave your company.

No one asks to become a carer, we're often not prepared for the role, but many of us will take on the care of a family member at some point in our lives.

The impact of caring can be all encompassing, but, for many carers going out to work each day is what helps them to maintain a sense of identity and routine.

As an employer, being armed with knowledge and information about how to support staff who are caring helps you to retain your best people!

Carers are, after all, pretty good at time management, prioritising, problem solving and communicating on different levels; all of these qualities you need to keep on your team!

Working with Blackpool Carers will help you to identify carers, help them to access appropriate support at the right time and improve staff retention, recruitment and wellbeing.
